Silver Bug Report:

Greetings to all you Numismatists and Coin Collectors out there.

A little quote from an old friend of mine, "Gather roses while you may, because you surely know what's on the way", just wondering if he's referring to the upside of the global demand for the "White Metal" or the white stuff that we Northerners are accustomed to at this time of the year.

Maybe, this Christmas instead of giving that someone special a gift card, a toy, or clothes that never fit, it just might be the right time to give the gift of education and "sound money". We all know or should know by now that as Malcolm X once said, and I quote,

"Education is the passport to the future, for tomorrow belongs to those who prepare for it today", end of quote.

In general, that particular quote has never been more true than it is here in the latter part of 2023. However, for the purpose of this newsletter article, we might consider applying the above quote to our economic history as well. For the majority of people on your gift list, the idea of "money" begins and ends with some form of government issued or endorsed script such as Canadian dollars, dollars, Euros or Pesos, they're all the same in as much as they are issued without solid backing or collateral and, as such, are being devalued toward zero with each passing year.

Therefore, when giving that gift to Family members, and especially your Children or Grandchildren you just might want to consider a gift of monetary education. During this era of global uncertainty, a gift of monetary and economic education along with "sound money" is a must.

A good example of "sound money", in my humble opinion would be a 10 oz Royal Canadian Mint silver bar, the reason for this particular suggestion to you is, each bar is made with a purity of .9999 silver, one of the highest recognized and accepted bars in the world bar none, please excuse the pun, couldn't help myself.

That pretty well sums up my personal thoughts on "The perfect Christmas gift" during these global truly uncertain times.

As the old saying goes, and I'm sure I heard it from our very wise and knowledgeable silver guru Dave, that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, multiply that by 10, and do the math.

Looking forward to seeing all your smiling faces at Calvin on the 17th.

Cheers, and may you and yours have a very "Merry Christmas and a Healthy, Happy, and Prosperous New Year".

Keith AKA The Little Silver Bug.
